Willits Community Television, Inc. (WCTV) is a nonprofit organization that provides public access information, training, and use of equipment for the purpose of developing public access programming for WCTV to be shown on the local cable system. The loan of WCTV equipment to certified community producers is for the express purpose of developing programming for WCTV to cablecast.

Workshop participants and certified producers must agree to take seriously their obligations to WCTV and the public. WCTV requires users to be responsible for:

1. Adherence to WCTV policies and staff instructions.
2. A positive, courteous attitude toward the public during program production or training.
3. Careful equipment use and maintenance, including responsibility for loss or damage to equipment when in the borrowers care.
4. Prompt fee payment when applicable.
5. Programming free of commercial, obscene, defamatory, or otherwise constitutionally unprotected material (see WCTV Program Agreement for details).

I have read and understand WCTV's policies and procedures and agree to abide by them and the statements above. (If the community producer is a minor, a parent or legal guardian must sign also.)
